Strategies & Measures of Success

INTRODUCTION

Gender balance has been in the DNA of Strata Innovation & Growth since its foundation, and we consider it as a main policy in our growth strategy, and we are working firmly to maintain it in our corporate culture at all levels.

Our approach to gender equality stems from our activities and efforts on workplace equality over the course of more than 5 years, and it is centered on our goal:

“We aim to establish a culture that is gender-responsive and recognizes gender equality as a fundamental principle via our daily activities”.

This Gender Equality Plan (GEP) summarizes Strata’s purpose and mission in regard to gender equality, it shows the measures that are being taken, and it outlines the organization's strategy for achieving and expanding this aim. It is meant to be a dynamic document that is updated frequently to reflect new initiatives and advancements.

STATEMENT

Since its founding, Strata Innovation & Growth has set the promotion of gender equality and equal opportunities as a high priority, ensuring a gender balance within the organization and considered in the programmes it supports. Gender issues are, in fact, essential to Strata's values and the achievement of its vision. It is embedded in ourselves and it's part of us.

Currently, women represent around 65% of our team and 50% of our management profiles.

Although these figures are encouraging, we keep challenging attitudes and implementing new ideas to boost the advancement of gender equality.

We stand for Gender equality as the non-discrimination and the protection of fundamental human rights.

In light of this, we also acknowledge that gender is non-binary, that there are other gender identities besides men and women, such as LGBTI+, and that many of these identities are associated with systematic violence and discrimination against their bearers.

Strata is in favor of treating every member of the LGBTI+ community fairly and with equal rights.

STRATEGIC CONTEXT

Strata Innovation & Growth is composed of an international team of experts in technology, science, technology transfer and innovation that helps tech companies leverage cutting-edge fundraising and go-to-market strategies to finance their innovation projects and grow.

The majority of the workforce is female, age groups vary from 20 to 65, and there is also a diversity of cultural backgrounds as workers belong to different nationalities. These facts favor worker integration and are aligned with Strata's goals to promote a safe and multicultural environment. As the company has grown, we have made notable progress towards gender equality, with women having strong representation in senior leadership roles, managerial roles, and specific discipline areas.

We work across different skill sets, technologies and geographies, delivering consulting work such as funding proposals, business plans, financial plans, IP strategies and strategic business contracts, all of them driving innovation and business growth.

Our cooperative model provides a conducive work environment for all employees, both for women and men, as all of them are given the same opportunities and their decisions carry the same weight.

OBJECTIVES & SCOPE

The main goal of this GEP is to facilitate the integration of gender into organizational practices and to act as a tool and framework for improving gender equality in the workplace.

Simultaneously, this GEP seeks to advance gender equality by means of research, project design, programs and practices that take into account the disparities in labor market participation between genders and actively support equality among individuals of different gender identities.

The proactive goal of Strata is to serve as a model for different organizations seeking to promote gender equality and recommend some innovative and efficient practices.

For the plan to be effectively implemented, all employees as well as contractors must be committed, and the organization must support initiatives aimed at improving staff and collaborators knowledge and abilities to facilitate effective gender balance in their respective fields of expertise.

This Gender Equality Plan gathers the measures to ensure that equality for all genders in the company are clearly established and expressed. Strata sets itself high goals with regard to the equality of all genders as we hereby express:

- 1. Reach a balanced share of women in the company within all layers, contractors, employees and management.
- 2. Performance-based pay, free from discrimination: Every employee and contractor receives a competitive and fair salary/fee based on market standards and experience. We take care that even potential implicit biases do not lead to unfair salary/payment differences. This is ensured by annual controlling and special controls at the time of initial employment and contracting with all our collaborators.

3. Family friendly employer: Strata promotes and defends family-friendly working time models (home office, part-time,...) as far as possible. Strata's working models foster fully flexible timetables, parental leaves, location flexibility and fully remote work for most of our collaborators and employees.
4. Female role models: Strata hires and promotes women at management levels.
5. Gender-appropriate communication: Strata takes great care to use gender-neutral terms in its external and internal communication.
6. Gender-balanced customers: We do not only pay attention to gender equality in our own company, but also understand that we can influence our industry. We actively promote female-led companies towards the different funding instruments and push gender balance policies in our clients.

ACCOUNTABILITY & RESPONSIBILITY

01 Responsibility

An equality officer is appointed to make sure all measures are being taken seriously and equality is achieved. It is the duty of the equality officer to see to it that all employees are informed and follow the rules established.

The equality officer is Sara Gavidia: sara.gavidia@strata.team.

02 Communication

The equality officer is accountable for making sure staff members are informed about the gender equality strategy and for taking corrective action in cases when prejudice is noticed or reported.

03 Monitoring

The equality officer's task is to continuously monitor the situation and revise the plan as needed to account for new actions and developments while they are on duty.

04 Data Collection

In addition to gathering data collected about gender and other pertinent factors, the equality officer is supposed to evaluate and consider the gendered components of their particular fields of expertise.

OUR KEY FOCUS AREAS

Strata is fully committed to providing equal opportunities for all employees, workers and job applicants, and to eliminating unlawful and unfair discrimination based - among others - on gender, sexual orientation, gender reassignment, pregnancy and maternity. Equality principles include direct and indirect discrimination, victimisation and harassment.

We strive to create and maintain a gender balance through equal opportunity hiring strategies and by creating a positive working environment prioritising work-life-balance, in particular:

Status, pay and opportunities are equal for everyone.

Job offers are open to everyone on equal terms.

Work/life balance (parental leave, flexible timetables, working from home where feasible) is part of our core values.

Any discrimination or harassment is identified rapidly and adequately sanctioned, involving higher management where necessary.
